

What types of cables are used in fireproof cable trays

Overview

Discover the key types of fireproof cables, including mineral-insulated, silicone-insulated, and LSZH cables, and their critical applications. In general, tray rated cables are quality products that have been tested to withstand the rigors. Fire prevention and protection systems (FPPS) require cables that meet proper technical standards, especially related to fire-resistant cables (FR) and flame-retardant cables (FRT). Therefore, understanding the application objectives of these two cable types will help optimize costs and operational. Fire-resistant cables are engineered to maintain circuit integrity under fire conditions for specified durations. They incorporate specialized insulation and jacketing—such as mineral cores, mica tapes, silicone rubber, advanced fluoropolymers, or low-smoke zero-halogen compounds—to resist high. Tray cables (TC) are multi-conductor cables designed and rated for installation in cable trays and raceways or supported by messenger wires. Tray cables are ideal for settings that require.
